

7

Infractions

Best Addressed by Restorative Practices

According to a Michigan law passed by Gov. Snyder in December 2016, schools are now asked to consider restorative practices as an alternative to suspension, expulsion or other zero-tolerance policies. Educators are strongly encouraged to consider restorative practices as their first course of disciplinary action, particularly for the following seven infractions:

Source: State of Michigan Enroll House Bill No. 5619

Inter-Personal
Conflict

Verbal & Physical Conflicts

Property Damage

Harassment
& Cyber-Bullying

Bullying

Theft

Class Disruption

MICHIGANVIRTUAL.ORG/SEL